Welcome to Bridport & West Dorset Open Studios
9 - 17 September 2017

Dear Visitor,

Bridport has become known as the leading Arts community in the West Country and our annual Open Studios event celebrates this vibrant Visual Arts Scene. Started in 1999 by Caroline Ireland, this year’s cover Artist, the event has grown over the years to become a distinctive showcase for the Artists who live and work in West Dorset.

This year’s renowned Open Studios event has moved to new dates, running 9th - 17th September. Follow the six maps in this Guide to meet 78 of West Dorset’s finest Artists, Designers and Makers who invite you to explore their studios, galleries and homes.

Bridport Open Studios exhibits the work of veteran names, emerging artists and keen newcomers. Whatever your taste in art, we are sure that you will find much to enjoy – whether it is for investment, pleasure or to support local artists. You will also discover much of the beautiful scenery tucked away in this special part of the West Country!

We encourage you to engage in conversation with the artists, seizing your opportunity to discover more about their creative process and enjoy their most recent work. Artists will have original works for sale, as well as prints and cards.

Steel, Stainless Steel & Bronze / Abstract Paintings on Aluminium Canvas

Oliver: creates large handwrought sculptures in metal of wildlife or contemporary forms. ‘There is no casting involved in my work. The metal is shaped over an anvil and sometimes even over a knee, then welded.’ He says, ‘If I can create in my art the grace and vitality of my subject, then I have succeeded.’

Penelope: My art starts as a meditation and I let my pencil flow. A fascination with topography and the shape of natural forms helps to inspire. I enjoy the vibrancy of colour and durability of car paints, which allows me to bring paintings to the outdoors.

23. Alice Blogg, Liz Somerville, Sian Evans & Adam Beales

Furniture & Interiors in Wood / Print / Precious Jewellery / Pottery

Alice’s ideas, married with locally-sourced materials, result in furniture with integrity and reflect her deeply-felt design and craft ethic. Interiors to individually commissioned furniture. Knowing the origin of the timber, bringing out its beauty, letting the timber sing – this intimate understanding of the material, often found literally at her feet, is Alice’s life. Liz: Lyricism within landscape is central to my work. I use a wooden spoon instead of a press, giving me the freedom to work at whatever scale: I paint instead of print blocks of colour for the same reason. The overall effect is what I’m after, I’m no slave to convention. Sian: Jewellery in gold, silver, precious and semi precious stones. Skills in ancient and modern techniques suffuse her work with an archaeological sensibility. On show are recent precious collections including; Sands of Time, Archaeology and Antumbras, plus new developments to her fashion collections inspired by botanical drawings. Adam: Creating pottery is about the spirit of making for Adam, a reflection of how our lives are connected to the earth and to each other. Current work consists of rounded, symmetrical forms inspired by Korean, Japanese, North American and British pottery, both modern and ancient. The idea that art can be introduced into everyday living, Adam is passionate about creating pottery that enhances the lives of those who enjoy his work.

Conceptual Drawings, Works on Paper, Collage & Mixed Media

I make abstract work, often minimalist and repetitive, exploring the patterns and processes of Nature and our landscape. My aim is to gently challenge the viewer’s perceptions, to prompt you to question what is it we really see - or don’t see - when we look at the world around us or peer at an artwork. I’m increasingly interested in what is unseen, hidden, eroded or still to be revealed and how the traces of past events are never completely obliterated but can still be read and influence the present. It’s no surprise erasure and redaction are a recurring theme in my work.

Kit Glaisyer works in the Romantic tradition with his Cinematic Landscape series of paintings of West Dorset, creating immersive, panoramic vistas that engage the viewer in an emotional relationship with the natural environment, drawing us into an evocative dreamscape where light, darkness and a transcendent experience of nature is experienced. He featured in the 2012 Portrait Prize at Bath's Holburne Museum; exhibited a retrospective of 45 paintings at the Octagon Gallery in Bath in 2013; was Highly Commended at the Marshwood Arts Awards at Bridport Arts Centre in 2015 and has run the Garden Gallery – a project space in Bath – since November 2016.
